ATTENDANCE POLICY

Document status: Demonstration sample | Version: 1.0 | Effective date: 01 November 2026

Important: This is fictional sample content created only to test the RAG chatbot. It is not an approved company policy. Replace and verify every rule with the authorized HR/management team before employee use.

1. Purpose and scope

This sample attendance policy describes a hypothetical timekeeping process for AKKI LATEST COLLECTIONS employees in stores, offices and warehouses.

2. Shift schedules

Employees must follow the shift roster shared by their store manager or reporting manager. Shift start and end times may vary by location and business requirements.

Employees should review the published roster and contact their manager promptly if a scheduled shift appears incorrect.

3. Marking attendance

Employees must record their own attendance using the attendance system or method approved for their work location.

Attendance should be marked at the start and end of each shift. Employees must not mark attendance on behalf of another person or ask another person to do so.

If the attendance system is unavailable, employees should inform their manager and follow the approved manual attendance process.

4. Late arrival and early departure

Employees who expect to arrive late or need to leave early should inform their manager as soon as possible and obtain approval where required.

Repeated late arrivals or early departures may be reviewed by the manager and HR in accordance with the final company rules.

5. Breaks and rest periods

Meal and rest breaks will be scheduled by the manager based on shift duration, customer traffic and applicable legal requirements.

Employees should coordinate break times with their team so customer service and store operations remain covered.

6. Absence and no-call situations

If an employee cannot attend a scheduled shift, the employee should notify the manager as early as possible and follow the leave-request process.

An absence without notification may be recorded as unauthorized pending review by the manager and HR. Employees should provide relevant information or supporting documents when reasonably requested.

7. Attendance corrections

If an attendance entry is missing or incorrect, the employee should notify the manager or HR with the date, shift and reason for correction.

Managers should review correction requests and ensure approved changes are recorded through the authorized process.

8. Payroll and attendance records

Attendance records may be used by HR and payroll teams to support monthly payroll processing. Employees should report discrepancies before the payroll cut-off communicated by HR.

This demo policy does not specify a payroll date, grace period, overtime rate or salary deduction formula. Employees should consult the approved payroll policy or HR for those details.
